Pitch Story

Title of your pitch: Revolving Tread Omnidirectional Treadmill for VR

Short introduction of your pitch: World's ONLY Circular Revolving Omnidirectional Treadmill for Exercise and VR

Your pitch story: With the 3D virtual universe becoming ever more popular, important and sprawling, for decades hardware developers have been striving to create devices and mechanisms that enable people to enter into and interface with these amazing new worlds. But the best that they have come up with are joysticks, interactive dancing mats and hand-held video game controllers. Now, with the advent of the OmniPad, people will be able to literally walk or run in any direction through the virtual universe. They will be able to explore all of its many offerings simply by using natural locomotion, as if they are exploring in the real world. The number of potential applications for the OmniPad are as endless and diverse as the virtual universe, itself. The OmniPad will allow people to:

- Literally run around inside of their favorite video games
- Take walking tours of virtual cities, museums, proposed real estate and fantasy worlds
- Exercise by jogging and running around inside 3D virtual landscapes and cities that are created in the likeness of real places, or places only conceivable by the imagination
- Train for battle

scenarios that employ ground forces • Challenge one another in virtual sports stadiums and 3D running tracks • Walk through and shop in any store or mall in the world without leaving the comfort of their own living rooms • Improve their level of cardiovascular fitness while simultaneously being entertained and driven by interactive 3D environments and real-time 3D characters that interface with the OmniPad user, and learn their training habits • Become more educated by taking a walking tour inside a functioning 3D virtual human body, or a virtual ecosystem complete with 3D plants and moving animals • And the possibilities go on, and on.

Target Market

Target market: Exercise-Fitness Market (Digital Fitness. i.e., Peloton market), and Virtual Reality Market. The OmniPad, being better than the Peloton in that the OmniPad offers OMNIDIRECTIONAL LOCOMOTION and the adaptation of 360-degree Virtual Reality, is well-suited to capture a large portion of the Digital Fitness marketplace. The Peloton Company simply has a linear treadmill. The first Peloton was sold in 2014, and in June of 2019 they filed for a $4.15 BILLION IPO. The OmniPad is going to target a similar market as the Peloton consumer. This should signal a very important and potentially lucrative buying opportunity to OmniPad investors. We are also going to target a series of other viable large markets; such as VR gaming, high-tech rehabilitation, sports training, military and first-responder training, virtual 360-degree tourism, education, VR museums, virtual shopping malls, and others.

Production plan

Production location: United States

Production plan: Funds from this current crowdfunding round will be attributed to completion of OmniPad prototype development. All mechanical engineering for the OmniPad has been successfully completed. The OmniPad engineering staff began to order the parts, molds, and tooling required to complete the prototype. Now, the company is seeking the funds to finalize and assemble the OmniPad. Once we have a full-scale, fully functional OmniPad we will either partner with Apple, Facebook/Oculus, Google, Samsung, and/or SONY for mass-manufacturing and distribution, or we will remain an independent retailer and procure multi-million dollar funding to manufacture, market and distribute the OmniPad on our own; similar to Peloton.
